U. S. CLOSING ON MASTER BOLSHEVIST

GIVES DEFINITION FOR LIQUORS

BRAINS OF REDS MAY BE TAKEN

Huge Sums of Counterfeit Money Reported Made

BIG BATTLE FUND PLANNED

Government Planning to Deport Anarchists Now Held

NEW YORK.—Department of justice agents are closing on the trail of the "arch-Bolshevik" or master mind believed to be at the head of activities in the United States, according to reports at department offices here Monday.

The name of the person was closely guarded. Department officials, however, indicated they expect him to be arrested soon. They indicated further the arrest might be made in New York or Washington.

Secret service men are understood to be investigating reported issues of huge sums of counterfeit money by the reds with the intent of flooding the country with money and deflating money values. The search resulted from study of documents seized in raids, which, it was said, indicated an international counterfeiting conspiracy, emanating from Moscow. Officials denied reports that spurious liberty bonds had been discovered.

Collection of a revolutionary battle fund of nearly $1,000,000 was the aim of radical leaders arrested in the "red" roundup, it was learned Monday at the department of justice.

A large share of the fund was in the coffers of the societies broken up by the raids.

Justice department secret agents are now investigating to learn the amount already collected which is estimated at several hundred thousand dollars. Approximately $200,000 has been collected by the national officers of the Communist Labor Party, whose headquarters were at Chicago.

DEPORTATION PLANNED BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

ST. LOUIS.—A deportation action against scores of the revolutionists rounded up by the government during the last few days, was instituted Monday by A. J. Caminetti, commissioner general of immigration. Arrangements for hearings were ordered speed up so the deportable "reds" may be bundled back to Russia and the way cleared for more nationwide raids which the department of justice probably will undertake at irregular intervals.

Investigation of the Bolshevik menace by the Russian affairs division of the state department showed that the avowed purpose of Lenin and Trotsky was to overthrow existing governments and standards of society through the world and substitute the soviet form of government and daily life, according to an official announcement made Monday by Secretary Lansing.

This Bolshevik program had failed in Russia already, where its results to date are a demoralization, civil war and economic collapse, the announcement said.

The report containing these conclusions has been handed by the state department to the congressional foreign affairs committee.

The report embraces the following subjects:

Character of Bolshevik rule—the theoretical dictatorship of the proletariat acknowledged to be the rule of a minority, with a definite policy of preliminary destruction is found in its to have degenerated into a close monopoly of power, a very small group, who use the most opportunistic and tyrannical methods in the name of the masses.

Economic results of Bolshevik control—while existing on the accumulated wealth of the country, the Bolshevik regime has brought about a complete economic collapse with consequent famine and epidemic. The claim of the Bolsheviks that the economic solution is wholly responsible for the economic chaos in Russia cannot be sustained.

The Bolshevik program has not worked and Bolshevism has to its credit no constructive accomplishments.

"Bolshevik program of world revolution—one of the main aims of the Bolshevik leaders from the very beginning, has been to make their movement a world-wide social revolution. They insistently declare that success in Russia depends on the development of corresponding social revolutions in all other countries. Bolshevik policies and tactics are subordinated to the idea of the international proletarian revolution. Apparent compromises with 'bourgeois' governments or countries have proved temporary and tactical."

While this report was being studied by congress, federal agents continued herding in the scattered members of the communist and communist labor parties, thru which, it is alleged, Lenin and Trotsky plotted to strike at the United States government. New figures on the total number arrested and the total number held, were expected Monday.

250 ARE ARRESTED.

DETROIT.—Federal operatives and police Sunday broke up two meetings of radicals at the House of Masses and arrested 250 more alleged reds. This raised the number of red arrests here to 800. Seventy-five have been released.

GALLI—CURCI TO TESTIFY

Famous Singer Will Go Before Divorce Court Today

CHICAGO.—Emelia Galli-Curci will probably be the first witness to testify Monday at the hearing of her suit for divorce before Judge Charles A. McDonald in superior court.

The now-famous opera singer charges her husband with infidelity mentioning a Melissa Brown, village belle of Fleischmanns, N. Y., where the Curci summer home is located. Among many deportations presented in the case was one by the Brown woman, telling of trips into the Catskill mountains with Curci, his brother and Mary Rinaldi. She also told of wine parties at the Curci summer home.

Curci, before his wife started the divorce proceedings instituted a suit for $50,000 damages against Homer Samuels, accompanist to Mme. Curci and Charles L. Wagner, her business manager, alleging they alienated his wife's affections.

In answer to the divorce complaint, Curci declared his wife was also unfaithful, mentioning Samuels in this connection. He attacked the suit on the grounds that it could not be brought in the United States, because of laws of Italy and a treaty with the United States.

Mme. Curci retailed with the reply that she liked Chicago better than any other city in the world and would make her permanent home here.

IRISH REBELS IN NEW CLASH

Police Battle With Them—No Casualties Reported

LONDON.—The serious situation in Ireland Monday has been complicated by a fresh series of outbreaks. Dispatches from Cork reported a group of 300 men late Saturday night, attacked the police barracks at Carrigrohilly and after a four hour battle with the six defenders, dynamited the buildings. Hundreds of shots were exchanged but there were no casualties. All telephone and telegraph wires connecting the village with outside were cut before the attack began. After confabulating arms and ammunition in the barracks, the attackers, apparently Sinn Feiners, handcuffed the policemen together, lectured them severely and freed them.

"You did your duty well," the leader of the attacking party told the police.

A building near the police barracks also was wrecked by the attackers. Families living in it escaped but their belongings were lost. Raiders also attacked the barracks at Carrig-Navar but were repulsed. Firing at long range continued some time.

At South Kilmurray and Inchegallagh barracks were raided but the defenders repulsed all attacks. One policeman was reported to have been wounded at Inchegallagh.

DENIKEN ESCAPES BULLET COPENHAGEN.—General Denikin escaped unhurt when an assassin fired at him Saturday but his adjutant was killed, according to a report reaching here Sunday.

DEATH MAY HELP SOLVE MYSTERY

Ada Recluse Dies From Effects of Burned Gas

BELIEVED TO HOLD SECRET

Officials Will Search Effects, Guarded In Life

ADA—Hope of clearing up one of this oldest and greatest mysteries of this city is seen by many people in the sudden death of John Parker, Miser and Recluse, who was found dead in his home late Sunday afternoon, he had been asphyxiated by burned gas sometime Saturday evening.

For years Parker conducted a saloon here but when Hardin county was voted dry under the Dow Law he retired from business.

About 25 years ago the body of a local man was found hanging from a tree in the rear of the Parker saloon. From that time until his death, Parker is declared to have acted strangely, it is thought that light might be thrown on the alleged murder by the dead man's records.

Parker had always presented himself as being poor and without friends. He had been married five times, three of his wives having died and the other two, one of whom survives, were divorced.

Parker lived alone in a large house, every door and window of which was closed and locked at all times. Two of the rooms of the house were locked and the aged man never allowed any one to enter either. Local authorities believe that in these rooms the recluse had hidden a large amount of money as at certain times he appeared at banks and exchanged large gold coins for smaller denomination.

These rooms will probably be opened and searched as soon as legal matters can be arranged. All windows of the house were supplied with burglar alarms, while in each room the aged man had loaded fire arms which could be used at a moment's notice.

The wives of the man were compelled to work out each day, according to their salary they declare. One of their home duties was to keep the birds from alighting in the trees around the house.

When his body was discovered there was found on the table a letter to a local young woman and written probably a few minutes before he was overcome. Parker was first missed Sunday noon when he failed to appear at his boarding house, Frank Cousins, probably one of the recluse's closest friends, became suspicious and went to the Parker home where he found the body of the man in a chair before a gas fire which was burning high.

No relatives have been found by local authorities.

SUGAR AS TRADE BOOST STOPPED

Commission Halts Grocers Using Article to Move Goods

WASHINGTON.—Retailers must stop compelling purchasers to buy a large amount of other goods, to obtain a few pounds of sugar, the federal trade commission ordered Monday.

Such trade practices constitute unfair competition, the commission decided. An order to "cease and desist," was issued to a Chicago company which will be extended to all other cities from which complaints have come.

The commission has received complaints from all sections of the country against this method of increasing sales.

The specific case decided was that of the Cole-Connors Company, Chicago, which was charged with offering three or five pounds of sugar in combination with certain other selected goods. The commission also stated that the decision would apply to the C. D. Kenney Company, Baltimore, charged with offering to sell sugar on condition that a certain amount of coffee was included in the purchase.

The commission declared unfair the action of the 23 wholesalers of Los Angeles in refusing to sell sugar and groceries to the Los Angeles Grocery Company.

REPUBLICANS TO BOOST FOR SENATOR HARDING COLUMBUS.—A number of prominent Ohio Republicans left for New York Monday to help boost Senator Warren G. Harding's presidential boom Tuesday night, when Harding speaks before the Ohio society of New York.

Among those who went were Ralph D. Cole, Congressman Clint Cole of Findlay, Secretary of State Harvey Smith, former Congressman E. L. Taylor and H. M. Meyer, of Columbus; Frank Ransbottom, of Zanesville; C. A. Ward, of Dayton, and F. H. Carnahan, of Akron.

G. O. P. WILL MEET IN LOVE FEAST

Lowden and Wood Will Face Each Other Tonight

CHICAGO—Two of the leading candidates for the Republican nomination for president will face each other here Monday night.

Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, and Major General Leonard Wood, will both attend the Republican dinner here Monday night, given in honor of National Chairman W. H. Hays, National Women Party leaders, and party managers from 14 middle states.

The presence of General Wood at the affair, political experts here believed Monday, will mark the start by the general of an active campaign for the nomination and set at rest reports that he would remain a passive contender.

The Republican pow-wow was to get under way early Monday. About 30 men and women will participate in the general conference. The first session of the committee on arrangements for the convention will be held Monday afternoon. Alvin T. Hart, Kentucky, is chairman of this body.

General Pershing spent Sunday in Chicago, but was not in touch with any of the Republican leaders as far as known. He spent a quiet day at the home of Brigadier Charles Dawes.

Chairman Hays and other early arrivals dined Sunday night at the home of Fred W. Upham, national treasurer.

Considerable discussion was caused among those attending the meeting, by announcement that James B. Reynolds, retired as secretary of the national committee, Reynolds will steer the campaign of Governor Calvin Coolidge, of Massachusetts, for the Republican presidential nomination. Reynolds will have headquarters at the Washington Coolidge headquarters.

Clarence B. Miller, of Minnesota, former congressman, will take Reynolds' place, it was reported Monday.

BELIEVE MYSTERY NEAR SOLUTION

Confession Expected in Brown Murder By Officials

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich.— Authorities here Monday anticipated a confession from one of several persons held in connection with the slaying of J. Stanley Brown, wealthy young clubman.

Officials intimated the accumulation of evidence gained since Attorney General Grosbeck's secret inquiry started Friday, was driving a suspect into a corner where admission of his connection with the case was expected.

It developed Sunday that in Grosbeck's secret hearing, witnesses testified to having seen a man in Brown's car at 10:30 p. m. the night of the slaying. They drove away together, according to the story.

Issuance of a warrant, charging this man with murder was anticipated.

This will be followed, it was reported, by the withdrawal of the charge of homicide against Cecil Beatrice Vester.

When the attorney general's secret inquiry is resumed at 2 p. m. Monday after the week end recess, all members of the Prevost family will be called to testify.

Clothing and shoes belonging to Lloyd Prevost, cousin of Brown's widow, were taken to the county jail for inspection Sunday.

Both Gladys Summit and Ben of the Vester woman, brought here as witnesses, were released.

COX WINS MINERS' CONVENTION

Strong Plea For Americanization Gets Strong Approval

FOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

Coal Situation Reviewed At Meeting in Columbus

COLUMBUS.—Federal agents "nipped" an attempt here Monday by "reds" to flood the United Mine Workers convention with literature setting forth soviet principles.

A large quantity of literature was seized by the agents and turned over to United States District Attorney Bolin. No arrests have been made.

Federal agents say the mine delegates had no connection with the literature which was brought here by "red" agitators in hopes of starting trouble.

COLUMBUS.—Governor James M. Cox, in his address of welcome to the United Mine Workers of America, here Monday, "stole" the convention.

Cox brought the 2,000 delegates to their feet when he declared:

"Any man, who after he's been in America long enough to become an American citizen and does not, is not entitled to carry a union card."

"Our experience in running a boarding house has not been a happy one," declared Cox.

"After a man has been in this country a short time, we should ask him if he loves America better than any other country; does he love Old Glory and does he believe in the fundamental principles of this nation."

Cox declared himself in favor of collective bargaining.

"And the American public also believes in collective bargaining," he said.

The convention was called to order by President John Moore of the Ohio mine workers.

Following the address of welcome, acting President John L. Lewis, of the mine workers of America, took the gavel.

William Green, Coshorton, secretary and treasurer of the United Mine Workers then made the joint report, of Lewis and himself on their negotiations with the government which sent the miners back to work.

The report reviewed the coal situation dating from the Cleveland convention last September up thru the restraining order issued by Judge Anderson, at Indianapolis.

"Many people, both in public and private life, expressed the opinion that the mine workers were not in favor of a strike but that they were willing to such action by their officers," the report said.

"The fact is the miners were not given a chance to vote on whether they favored or opposed going on a strike."

"While protesting in our hearts against what we believed to be the unjust attitude of the government, we decided to subject to the inevitable, the report said.

"We have made our decision based upon existing circumstances and facts and we are confident that time will vindicate our every act and justify the course we have pursued," concluded the report.

No action will be taken during the convention that will embarrass or have any effect upon the commission investigating the coal situation for President Wilson, officials say.

"Nothing the convention could or will do, will have any effect upon the tentative agreement between the miners and the government, under which the miners are now working," declared President Lewis.

"We're simply here to report to our men. They can and probably will ratify our actions."

The conventions is expected to be in session at least four or five days, as many of the delegates will have "something to say."

"The public need not be alarmed at this meeting," declared Editor Ellis Searies, of the United Mine Workers Journal, the official publication of the miners. "Nothing will be done that will affect the coal situation."

The case of the miners is now in the hands of the commission of the men, who President Wilson appointed to investigate the coal situation and report to him, if possible, in 60 days.

"Upon the awards of this commission," Lewis said, Monday, "the miners will draw up their new working agreement with the operators."

"We've agreed to abide by the commission's decisions," he said. Lewis declined to make any comment on what coal prices might be after the commission has finished its work, because a statement might embarrass the commission.

"The government must take some action, tho," he said, "to conserve coal under the present system of mining," he said, "fully 60 per cent of the production is wasted."

Lewis announced that on January 28, the wage scale committee of the United Mine Workers would appear before President Wilson's commission to submit the miners' case. The convention will be open to the public.

Hope of Brewers to Get Product Marketed Blasted

IS DECLARED INTOXICATING

Ruling Will Stand Under Constitutional Prohibition

Ruling Of Court In Brief

The effect of the two supreme court decisions on prohibition Monday is:

Sale of two and seventy-five percent beer or any beverage containing one-half of one percent of alcohol is now illegal and has been since last October 28, when the Volstead act became a law.

Sale of 2.75 percent beer was legal between July 1, 1919, when war-time prohibition became effective, and October 28, 1919.

WASHINGTON.—Upholding the constitutionality of the most vital section of the Volstead enforcement law, the supreme court Monday declared that 2.75 beer and that other near-beers cannot be sold under war-time prohibition.

The important feature of the decision is that the court upheld the action of congress in declaring intoxicating and preventing the sale of all beverages containing one-half of one percent or more alcohol, by volume, with the exception of home-made cider and wine.

The decree of the court may be taken as a definition of intoxicating liquor that will stand under constitutional prohibition also because of the definite statement that congress in providing for the enforcement of prohibition can prescribe just what makes a beverage intoxicating.

The case decided Monday was an appeal from the New York federal courts, brought by Jacob Rupprecht, a brewery corporation.

Justice Brandeis read the opinion of the court, as he did at the time war-time prohibition was declared constitutional.

Supporting in every way the contentions of the government and congress just as the opinion of the court did when war-time prohibition was declared constitutional by unanimous vote, the decree of the supreme tribunal apparently means a real bone-dry nation.

Likewise, it dispels the hope of the liquor interests, or any tilting of the lid either at present or under constitutional prohibition it is believed here.

The financial interests involved in the decision Monday are estimated at $1,000,000,000 by the liquor attorneys, including the amount of beer on hand and the property for its manufacture which will be rendered virtually useless. One hope of the liquor interests was to convert many old-time breweries into plants for the making of the 2.75 product.

The New York federal court upheld the Volstead law in its definition of intoxicating liquor under war-time prohibition in a suit brought by Rupprecht. The appeal was then taken to the supreme court, and the case argued by Ellis Root on November 21.

The Rupprecht brewery contended that congress exceeded its powers in enacting the Volstead laws enforcing war-time prohibition, because by its definition of intoxicating liquor, it prohibited the sale of beverages which it is claimed, are not as intoxicating as those prohibited by the Volstead law.

A long argument was made by Root to show that the word "other" as appearing in the phrase of the law, should be carried to the words "beer" and "wine" thus prohibiting the sale only of intoxicating beer and wine.

The action of the government in prohibiting the sale of 2.75 beer both before and after the Volstead law was passed on October 28, 1919, was upheld.

The decision of the court was five to four, Justice Day, Clark, Van Devanter and McReynolds dissenting.

ANOTHER RULING

WASHINGTON.—The supreme court Monday held that the government exceeded its authority in preventing the sale of 2.75 percent beer under war-time prohibition when the Volstead law was passed on October 28.

This decision, unfavorable to government, does not mean that sale of 2.75 beer is authorized now, because the court earlier in the day held that congress had the power as expressed in the Volstead law, to fix the amount of alcohol that makes a beverage intoxicating. The Volstead law now being in force, supersedes this opinion of the court, which was handed down upon appeals from Baltimore and New Orleans federal courts.

The main effect of the opinion will be to prevent prosecution of brewers and liquor dealers who sold 2.75 percent beer under war-time prohibition from July 1, to October 28, the date the Volstead law became effective. It affirms opinions of both lower courts, the cases being brought in Baltimore by the Standard Brewery and in New Orleans by the American Brewing Company.

OHIO'S POLITICAL PLOT THICKENS

Senator Harding Has Enough Embarrassments for One Man

SENATORSHIP PLUM SOUGHT

Other State News of General Interest Now

By MARCUS

COLUMBUS, Ohio.—(Special).—

As the hero of an old-fashioned melodrama might say, "The plot thickens." Which refers, kind readers, to the growing intensification of the presidential primary situation in Ohio. It must be determined in less than sixty days who is coming in and who is going to stay out. General Leonard Wood has declared himself a candidate in South Dakota and is really a bona fide aspirant for the nomination. Remains to be determined whether he will have to courage to try his strength in Ohio against the local favorite, United States Senator Warren G. Harding. It seems settled that Senator Hiram Johnson will try his hand but he does not count and has no substantial following. Hon. "Jack" Arnold expected. So the big issue remains as to whether General Wood is to break in upon the scene endangering several districts for the Harding fellows.

Even aside from Wood there are embarrassments enough for Senator Harding, one of them having as his name Harry M. Daugherty, suspected of having concealed upon himself a desire to be Republican national committeeman. If any doubt this, ask Harding. That's all.

One can scarce blame the Senator for saying to some of his supporters that Mr. Daugherty is not, after all, the big noise in his headquarters. On the other hand, who can blame the anti-Daugherty fellows who are for Harding but unwilling to see his name used as a lever to boost Daugherty into the national committee berth for demanding visible proofs of freedom from Daugherty domination? It is plain no one has named them and no one will save the Daugherty crowd. The proof with which they will be satisfied is nothing short of a set of delegates that cannot be tagged and delivered. And it is for Mr. Harding in the final analysis to say whether the delegates are to be secured that will settle the national committee job easily or with a very deal of a "rookus." This is one place where the Senator cannot escape like the fellow did who was running from the Indians on a western prairie—by running up an alley.

For whatever they are worth, Lieutenant Colonel Ralph D. Cole goes right on—like the soul of John Brown—in securing Republican county committee endorsements. The inside talk continues to be that Congressman Roscoe C. McCulloch is the prime favorite but the dispatches continue to chronicle the organization advantages of Cole. As four of these came since Cole was denounced in the leading Republican newspaper as a friend of the public utility interests, there is no doubt but he holds the intention of forcing the issue. Meanwhile Arnold is giving up the promotion of Senator Johnson to try a second whirl at the Governorship, predicating his own upon the assertion that Auditor of State A. V. Donahay is 50,000 stronger than his ticket unless the G. O. P. uses good judgment in picking a candidate. By spending care to come to Columbus any one interested may learn the identity of the individual first hand from Jack A. letter might also drag it from him.

In terms that did not admit of doubt, Governor James M. Cox recalled to their duty the members of the General Assembly who passed the graduated automobile tax measure. The vicious feature of private check books to public affairs, he said, must go. Auditor A. V. Donahay sought to warn before the final action was taken but it was not heeded. If the Executive's words fail to arouse no further interest in the subject it is a long-odds bet that the people will show their interest next November.

Vic Donahay always was a lucky fellow and his opponents continue ever to manufacture material for him.

Let it be added, too, that the managers of the Ohio State Teachers' Association performed a genuine service in bringing one Atwood to Ohio to denounce the Initiative and Referendum and kindred reforms. He and they, collectively, did much to define what the real issue before the country is to be. That has been the danger all along, that the genuine progressives would be deceived.

They are being awakened in Ohio, where they have a fashion of sniffing things about six weeks to six months ahead of the rest of the country.

Elihu Root, Reed Smoot, Boies Penrose, Jim Hemenway, Jim Watson and the other fellows who put things over for President William Howard Taft in Chicago in 1912 might have learned a lesson or two from the engineers of the Ohio State Teachers' Association. The billiards of the gang out in old "Chi" when Col. Roosevelt was given the high-low was rough compared to the smooth workers of the "old guard."

The managers of 1920 ought to consult with them and get their methods. They know how, take it from this old chronicle of the unvarnished truth. They have not de-tee which can watch the Ohio League of Teachers' Organization, find out if it has any strength or strong points, seize it or them, keep the control in the right hands and go sailing along like a winner in a colored man's scrap game. If the rival organization does not show much life, take it from this friend of the oppressed, the "reform" movement, making for "fuller participation" and all that sort of junk will go out the side door. And Prof. T. C. Corson, the heavy lifter of the 100 per cent Republican Americanization committee, was in the office, looking on. He was forced to become reminiscent about Mark Hanna, just could hold it, you know.

Wonder if it is not about time that the municipal ownership believers begin to rally? The dissatisfaction expressed over the government ownership of railroads and the government management of telegraph and telephones for the former controllers of these properties doubtless held all socialization movements in abeyance but it now seems there is a revival of them. Street car fares have been going up, up, up in every city except Cleveland where we were arranged which came about by reason of the agitation of Tom L. Johnson about the time next fall's crop of first voters were born has a tremendous influence in holding them level. Everywhere there is springing up a demand for municipal ownership legislation and some time it will be a big issue. The original advocates put it on a par with the Initiative and Referendum as a club behind the door and nifty little that old plea will be revived in time to come. The trouble with fares fixed on abnormal conditions is that they do not tend to go down on normal times. In New York some fellow connected with the traction interest spoke sneeringly of the "five-cent mind." Well, another phrase, "The public be 4-4" put the railroad on the hummer.

General approval seems to have greeted the announcement that John L. Clifton, head of the college of education of Ohio State University is to succeed Dr. Francis B. Pearson as State Superintendent of Public Instruction when the latter lays down the burdens of office on February 15. Clifton is one of the daddies of the rural school code fostered by Governor James M. Cox way back in 1913 and 1914, when to do so was highly unpopular. There is believed to be a peculiar satisfaction in leaving Clifton on the job to defend the work, a task not difficult in these days when the desirability of the plan has been so thoroughly established. Pearson will continue in somewhat of an advisory capacity while writing his reminiscences and book during the restful years of his life. While the political reporters have made much of the political opposition to Prof. Clifton this seems largely confined to a politico-book agent. The real politicians have only a passing interest in the matter. Clifton's advance into office on February 15 will sort of even up matters since there will be one Democrat then and three Republicans in the heavy places in state educational work. That's the normal balance, anyway.

When Ulysses Grant Murrell, M. D., of Wilmington, comes into the Bureau of Vital Statistics to succeed Dr. John E. Monger, of Greenville, he will have a comparatively easy job on his hands. He has only to keep up the department to the standard set by Dr. Monger in his four years of service. Dr. Monger found Ohio not recognized by the federal government. He set work to repair the defects. And he did. It is now recognized as the best state for vital statistics in the country and Ohio figures are good any place. This was quite an accomplishment for three years. Ohio is now in the federal registration area and the state, a late comer in the game of adequate vital statistics, is a leader now. Dr. Monger had another year to serve and it may be said for Secretary of State Harvey C. Smith that he did not crowd matters although the incumbent whom he found was quite on the other side of the political wall. Dr. Monger is entering the field of industrial medicine in Columbus where the game is not as highly developed as it is in some other centers. What it goes up, though, from now on.

Strange how some men let it be known they are candidates for reelection! For instance, is old General Isaac R. Sherwood, of Toledo, a militant soldier, able general, skillful politician and militant battler against war. General Sherwood will rise in his place on Monday down in Washington and ask the Congress to appropriate $14,000 for the American embassy to the "Irish Republic." Congress, having several other things to do, long about that time will not do it, of course. But up in the town which now claims to be the third in the state there will be petitions started asking the General to run again with all the Filmmertys, Plannertys and half the "Mac" and all the "O's" on it. And the General will run again and be elected, too, unless something awful happens out that way. The only part of the performance not complete is his biennial declaration against running. He has not made it this year, probably waiting to deliver the Sinn Fein speech first. It is a sure sign of the spread of the Irish sentiment when as shrewd a palm reader as General Sherwood takes it up. He had the right dope when he said the American people are in sympathy with the Irish cause and his judgment will be verified next November.

One of the most distressing features of the wood alcohol poisoning epidemic is the renewed flood of argument that it will loosen on a long suffering people. They're already begun! They're already begun. Which means kind readers, that both factions are blaming it on each other. The professional prohibitionists say it is the accused "wets" and the A. W. about in tones equally vibrant that it is the prohibitionists who are responsible. At that, though, old King Alcohol would have had to travel some to have kept pace with the way in which his heels and assigns are knocking them cold. Ohio seems to be lucky in having avoided trouble so far, at least the serious kind. But, my word, it is certainly deluged with argument. It all depends on the community one is in to determine responsibility, being sort of geographical, don't you know. Now it is up to some genius to invent an instrument for detecting wood alcohol instantaneously and without the flowers and slow music accompaniment. Get to work, ye chemists and physicists!

Just getting even and not necessarily the "most unkindest cut of all" as one W. Shakespeare might have phrased it, this—just this—is seen in the statement of Congressman Martin Luther Davey on Editor C. Landon Knight. Davey is the author of the anti-red bill that Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer wants. He has been taking a census of where the nation stands on it and finds that it is unanimous to judge by the secular press—save for an I. W. W. organ, the Marxian daily in New York and Knight's Beacon-Journal in Akron. On the basis of this information Davey is giving a little free triumphing to his old friends Ohio's forty-eighters, meaning thereby, the Buckeye member of these-called committee of 48 that is to preserve our heaven-sent liberties.

But the tears that have been shed by Knight over the wrongs inflicted on the deportees and opponents of sedition legislation are as nothing compared to the walls that escape him every time he thinks of the state income tax which the majority is thinking of putting through. With all that rubber stock in his jeans and the income from an overgrown newspaper, the editor will have to put up a pretty penny, how much may be gathered from the amount of the squeal. Unless the old fellow is "tighter" than we have ever believed we should say about $10,000.

Members of the city council who have served the past year will say farewell at the first meeting of the new year, called for tonight. At the same time the new councilmen will be inducted into office and assume their places.

Members of the old body are: Harry Altshuler, Thomas M. Berry and H. L. Hopper, councilmen-at-large; William Tierney, representing the first ward; Joseph Goble, the second; John W. Reed, the third; Ellis Jones the fourth; W. G. Shuler the fifth and Harry J. Brice the sixth.

The new council will have a busy session, if questions to be submitted as arranger in advance, are a criterion by which to judge. H. L. Hopper, councilman-at-large, is out of the city, being now employed in Dayton. He may decide to leave in that city in the spring. His family is still living at 825 West Market street.

A caucus will be held at 6 o'clock tonight at which time council will be asked to take some action on the temporary franchise which will cancel the new light and power rates of the Ohio Electric, effective January 15.

The object is to give the Ohio Electric the same rates for their service as is allowed under the old franchise until such a time as attorneys for the various citizens' committee can present the franchises they are planning.

GALLI-CURCI NOT TO APPEAR

Divorce Suit Causes Cancellation of Recital Here

Galli-Curci, the noted song-bird, will not appear in Lima on April 1. Due to her divorce suit, trial of which opened in Chicago Monday, her manager cancelled her date Monday night. A telegram received by Frank E. Harman, who was bringing Galli-Curci here, assured him of a date for the noted artist some time next fall.

Desiring to not break faith with the people who had supported the course which Harman was arranging, he began the refunding of money already paid.

"I felt that no artist in the list of stars which could be substituted, could make up in the minds of the people the artistry of Galli-Curci and I decided to do away with the entire course and refund the people the money," Harman said.

"When we may secure her next fall, I shall expect and the course will merit even greater support," he declared.

Other numbers making up the course were the Detroit Symphony Orchestra on February 7 and Rudolph Ganz and Carolina Lazzari in a joint recital on March 26.

All those who had made reservations may expect to receive their money back within the next few days.

MUSCLES WERE TIED IN KNOTS, SAYS OHIO MAN

Lost Many Weeks From Work But Feels Fine, Since Taking Tanlac, He Says

"Not in years have I enjoyed such good health and felt so well generally as I do since taking Tanlac," said George Burdett of 327 White St., Toledo, Ohio, recently. Mr. Burdett has charge of all the metal work at the Toledo Parlor Furniture Company's plant located at 1218 Park Ave., and is one of the best known machinists in Toledo.

"For the past six or seven years I have suffered something awful from rheumatism and lumbago and have had to lay off from work many a week," continued Mr. Burdett. "I had shooting pains thru my back and in my limbs, and at times when I stooped over they were so bad that I could hardly straighten up again. The rheumatism in my legs seemed to tie my muscles up into knots and I would suffer agonies. Last spring I had a severe attack of flu and when I got up I was in a weakened condition, with my stomach all upset. What I ate soured and caused gas to form so that I had a miserable heavy feeling for days after eating. My appetite was changed—some days I would not touch a bite and then the next day I would eat nearly everything on the table. Sometimes I would be walking along the street and get so dizzy that I could hardly stand up."

"I had been reading about Tanlac in the paper and one day I noticed a statement that bit my case exactly and I made up my mind right then and there to try it. Well, sir, if I had heard of Tanlac sooner I would have saved a small fortune for I had spent thousands of dollars on all sorts of medicine but nothing ever did me a particle of good until I got hold of Tanlac. It went right after my troubles and now the rheumatism and lumbago have left me entirely and I never have a pain of any kind. My digestion could not be better and as my food is giving me strength I have gained eight pounds already, and am still gaining. My appetite is fine and regular and I don't have dizzy spells any more. I feel as sound as a dollar. In fact, I have not felt as fine in years. I believe that Tanlac is what it deserves and I can say that Tanlac deserves every bit of the praise the people are giving it everywhere."

Tanlac is sold in Lima at Hunter's Drug Store and the leading druggists in every town.

TWICE PROVEN

If you suffer backache, sleepless nights, dizziness, dull aches and distressing urinary disorders, don't experiment. Read this twice-old testimony. It's true evidence—doubly proven.

Mrs. E. C. Stoltz, 211 W. Vine St., says: "Whenever I have needed a kidney remedy I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and they have always brought me immediate relief. When I have overworked or a cold has settled on my kidneys, I have had a steady dull ache in my back. Doan's Kidney Pills have always corrected the trouble. Backache and all the other troubles has disappeared."

OVER TWO YEARS LATER Mrs. Stoltz said: "Doan's Kidney Pills are fine. They never fail to fix me up when I needed them and I am glad to confirm the recommendation I made for them three years ago."

Every Evening in The News

THE park that had taken Cassy, and from which, at that hour, children and nursemaids had gone, was green, fragrant, quiet, its odorless peace enveloped the girl who had wanted to cry, in hurrying on she had choked it back. But you cannot not always have your way with yourself. The tears would come and she sat down on a bench, from behind which a squirrel dived.

Before her the grass departed, the trees disappeared, the path wound into nothingness. In their place was the empty vastness that sorrow is. The masquerade that had affected her physically, had affected her psychically and in each instance profoundly. It had first sickened and then stabbed. There had been no place for sorrow in the double assault. There had been no time for it either. Occupied as she had almost at once become with the misadventures of another, she had no opportunity to consider her own. Yet now the aspect that sorrow took was not that of disaster. What it showed was the loneliness of the soul, solitary as it ever is in that desert, which sooner or later, we all must cross. Vast, arid, empty, before her it stretched.

Nearby, on the bench, crouching there, eager, anxious, wary, a squirrel, its fluffy tail and tiny nostrils quivering, watched her with eyes of bead. From the desert, she turned and seeing the little graceful thing, stretched her hand. She would have liked to take it and pet it. It would have made her solitude less acute. At the movement, a ball of misty fur bounded. Where it had been, there was air.

The abrupt evaporation distracted her. Before her the desert lay, but in it now was her father. She had been going to him. Previously, she had thought that, when she did go, her hands would be filled with gifts. Instead, they were burdened, laden to the bone. They would madden him and she wondered whether she could endure it. The long, green afternoon, that had been so brief, had been so torturesome that she doubted her ability. But he would have to be told. She could not lie to him and humanly she wished that it were to-morrow, the day after, the day after that, when it would be over and done for, put away, covered by woes of his own, though inevitably to be dragged out again and shown her, too, with the unconscious cruelty that those who love you display.

It would be crucifying, but there was no help for it. Reaching for the bundle, she stood up and went her way, across the Park, to the subway, from which she got out in Harlem.

The loveliness of that land of love seemed to have changed, though the change, she then recognized, was in herself. But at least the walk-up was unaltered. In the same entrance was Mrs. Yallum, but Finn, who looked like a dirty base, and yapped at her volubly, incomprehensibly, but with such affection that Cassy, yapping back, felt less lonely as she ascended the stair.

The comfort was mediocre. In the afternoon she had gone from a ruin. Now she had the sensation of entering another, one from which he had also gone, but to which she was returning and with a spirit so quieted in the journey. Had she, she wondered, any spirit left at all? At least enough remained to prevent any wish for the reconstruction of the ruin behind her. About the fallen walls were forms of filth; in the corners there were vermin, and though, before her, the desert stretched, it was clean. However, and it was wholesome.

But now she was at the door. She let herself in, hurried to the living-room, where with the feigned cheerfulness of the unselfish, she beamed at her father and bent over him.

"Here I am to look after you again! How well you look. I am so glad and oh! where is your sling?"

In speaking she stroked him. His skin was clearer, she thought, and the abandoned sling was a relief. He looked up at her. "You got married without me. I ought to have been there. Why didn't you tell me? It was for me to give you away. Who did?"

"Who did what?"

"Who gave you in marriage?"

With the mimic of gaiety, Cassy laughed. "Why, you old dear, all that has gone out. Hereabouts, nowadays, a father never goes to a wedding—only to funerals."

She paused and, with the idea of breaking it to him in bits, resumed: "Besides, it was all done in a hurry, in too much of a hurry."

He took it in, but at the wrong end. "Sick of him already, eh? Well, it isn't because I did not warn you. Where is he?"

Cassy moved back. Should she give it to him now or later? But to go on then, repeating itself, told her.

"Where is your husband?"

Now for it, she thought. But at once he said: "There was nothing in the papers. 'Why is that? What is that package?'"

Cassy looked at the bundle which she still held. It gave her courage.

"I am not married."

For a second he stared. It was obvious that he had not got it. "Where have you been, then?"

ways she had hated to explain and of all possible explanations what could be more hateful than this? If he would only guess, it, flare up, stamp about, get it over, let it go. But the cup was there and she drank it.

"I thought I was married. I am a fool."

They covered her. Then, with an in-braced herself. The explosion did not come, but his eyes widened. Telly covered her. Then, with an intake of the breath and of understanding, he lowered them. Apparently he was weighing it and Cassy thought he was trying to restrain himself, and she blessed him for it. It was less terrible than she had feared. But immediately it occurred to her that instead of trying to restrain himself, he was seeking the strength wherewith to rend her. And I am so innocent, she despairfully thought.

Her eyes were upon him and he looked up into her.

"Why did you think you were married?"

"I told you, because I am a fool. There was a clergyman and a ceremony. Afterwards I found that the clergyman was not a clergyman and that the ceremony was a sham."

"When was that?"

"This afternoon."

"What did you do?"

"What was there for me to do?"

"Where is he now?"

Cassy put down the bundle. She had no idea. But she said: "This evening we were to go to the opera. I hardly fancy he will miss it on my account." She paused and with a little catch in her voice continued: "I know it is all my fault, I ought to have known better and I shall be so unhappy if you mind. Won't you try not to?"

As she spoke, he stood up and she thought that the delayed volcano of his wrath was about to burst. To smother it, she touched him. "Of course you will mind. But I would not have been such a fool if I had not believed that everything would be so much better for you. Can't you see that and, if you do, can't you forgive me?"

He had moved from her to the piano; there he turned and looked. "There is nothing to forgive, Cassy. You have been a good girl always. I am sorry, of course I am sorry, but you are not to blame."

Understanding instead of malice! Sympathy in lieu of abuse! Such things are affecting. The tears swam to her eyes and wretchedly and yet thankfully she wept.

He did not seem to notice. In the narrow space he was moving about, shifting things on the piano, dis-tingling and rubbing a score, which finally, he let fall. He stopped for it. As he raised it, Cassy saw through her tears that his hand was shaking. He, too, must have seen it. He left the room and she heard him pottering in the kitchen.

She wiped her eyes. Across the court was another kitchen in which were a woman and a child. Often she had seen them there, but if she had seen them elsewhere she would not have recognized them. They were but forms, the perceptions of a perceiver, and though Cassy had never read Fichte and was unacquainted with Berkeley, the idea visited her that they had no real existence, that, if it might be, she had none either, that all she had endured was a dream drifting by, with nothing past which to drift.

It was her father's attitude that had induced these metaphysical hysterics. She had expected that some demon within him would spring out and gibber. Instead of which he had told her, and so gently, that she was not to blame, it is words like these that bring tears swift. The tears had come, but the words had also sufficed to reduce the people across the way into baseless appearances, in which, for the moment, she included herself.

But now at least her father was actual. He was coming in with glasses and a bottle which he put on the table.

"You are tired," he said. "Have a little."

Seating himself, he drank and Cassy feared that if the liquor exerted the authority that liquor has, he might go back into it and exact from her details which it would revolt her to supply, in helping himself, he had poured a glass for her. She did not want it. What she wanted was bed and blanket of long, dreamless sleep. It could not be too long. She was tired, as he had said, but more so than he knew, tired with the immense fatigue that emotions and their crises create.

She moved over to where he sat. Several minutes had gone since he spoke yet it seemed to her but the moment before.

"Yes, I am tired, but you're a good daddy and I love you." She bent over him, went to the kitchen, got a glass of milk and a biscuit, which she carried to her room, where she opened the window and closed the door.

Long later, when she awoke, it was with consciousness of something there, something waiting, something evil, something that had jeered and pummelled her in her sleep. But what? Then, instantly she knew. A palace of falsehoods had tumbled about her and the lies had laughed and bruised her as they fell. They had been laughing and falling the whole night through.

The light distracted her. In the morning, because of the building opposite, her room was dark. Now it was bright. The sun had scaled the roof. A gleam looked in and told her it was noon.

How could I have slept so long? she wondered. She put some things on and opening the door smelled coffee. The poor dear! she thought, he had to make it himself.

She went into the living-room. There her father sat. On the table before him was a paper.

Without speaking he pointed to a headline. The letters squirmed. They leaped and sprang at her. From before them she backed. But what nonsense! It was impossible.

She could not believe it. Yet there it was! Abruptly there also was something else. An electric chair, the man of all men in it! From before the horror of that she reeled, steadied herself, looked at her father, looked without seeing him. "God of gods! And I did it!" (To Be Continued)

How to Keep Baby Smiling and Well

See that the daily functions are regular and normal

YOU can't expect the little ones to be happy and playful when the head feels dull and the stomach bloated. The normal habit of children is to be happy and when you notice them cross and fretful you will usually find constipation is responsible.

Perhaps they have missed that daily function so necessary to comfort and health. Look at the tongue and see if the breath is bad. Watch for belching. These are the tell-tale symptoms of constipation. Tonight give a little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which you can buy at any drug store, and it will act in the morning and the troublesome symptoms promptly disappear.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. Unlike the harsher physics it acts gently and without gripping so that while grownups can use it freely it can also be given to a tiny baby with perfect safety. Thousands of American families would not think of being without a bottle in the house for the emergency arises almost daily when it is needed.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, there being over 6 million bottles sold each year, many who need its benefits have not yet used it. If you have not, send your name and address for a free trial bottle to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 511 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

Books After Christmas

IF TO THE making of books there is no end, there seem to be very definite limits to the public's willingness to buy books. These limits are set less by considerations of quantity than by considerations of season. Most people, apparently, buy books in December. Does that mean that they buy them only to give them away? A dangerous practice in these days, when every man as never before needs brains and the wisdom born of experience. Books are distilled brains; books are condensed experience; books are not merely pretty gifts, they are the necessary equipment of the big game we all have to sit in, willy-nilly. Or is it as this season that people make literary provision for a sort of desert isle between Christmas and summer? This, too, is a practice not unattended with danger. Events move with greater rapidity than before, and books as never before keep pace with them.

THE WORLD OF January and February is not the world of December, and the books of January and February teach us what December did not know. Teach us if one insists what March and April will prove to have been but inadequate knowledge; but no one ever said that these were easy and comfortable times. Yet they are times with a challenge which the vigorous mind rejoices to accept, times in which only the vigorous mind, the mind willing at some effort to keep itself informed, can hope for effective survival. So much depends on the willingness and the ability of great numbers of people to think straight and to some end. Books offer at once the guidance and the materials.

The Sugar Crop

UNCLE SAM WILL NOT buy the Cuban sugar crop. Mr. Wilson has said so and that seems to settle it. He has announced that the government will not act as dealer since it is believed higher prices would result and a deficit might be suffered by the government.

IF THE SUGAR CROP were to be handled as the railroads have been handled there is no doubt there would be a deficit and that prices would go up. Unless some better business judgment could be exercised in the deal than has been the case with the railroads, the public should be glad there will be no federal dabbling in the sugar market. We ate, for the most part, pretty well fed up on government control.

Playing to the Galleries

IT IS INTERESTING to watch the various plays being made now by presidential possibilities for public favor. Each candidate for the nomination for this high office is seeking to hit upon some scheme which will be popular and bring him into the public eye. So far there have been a number of attempts and it must be said that some of them have been cleverly executed. It is several months, however, before the people will choose a president and many of these plays will go for naught.

MISS LIMA: "If the dance reformers succeed in getting thru their proposed reforms, there'll be a lot of halls for rent."

The Cost of Living

DESPITE THE numerous campaigns which have been waged during the last several months against high prices they are still with us. Figures just given out in Washington show that the price of food is 3.8 percent higher now than a year ago. It costs 92 percent more to eat now than it did before the war.

ALL OF THIS proves that the various schemes advanced by the government officials who sought to make grandstand plays by adopting the high price campaign were all theory. They had no foundation. They have made promises but like the end of the rainbow, relief is just a little farther ahead.

THERE IS ONLY one way to cut the cost of living. Wages and living cost must come down together. When we are satisfied to work to the fullest extent and turn out enough for ourselves and other nations which are dependent upon us then prices will drop and not before.

Watch Your Furnace

THIS IS THE TIME of year when the most fires occur. An experienced fireman will tell you that he hates to see a cold snap for it means property loss and damage and in many cases suffering. It is the time when everyone should exercise the greatest care to prevent his home from being visited by a fire and endangering his neighbor's domicile, but it is not the case.

RECORDS AT FIRE department headquarters show the heaviest fire losses in the bitterest weather. It is necessary to fire up furnaces and stoves to keep warm and the element of carelessness creeps in and a blaze is started. It is to the interest of everyone to use the greatest possible care at this time to prevent fires.

Short Ones.

AFTER STAYING out for three or four days, the funny looking neckties are beginning to disappear.

"HE IS A DRY WIT," says a friend of ours, speaking of a certain author. We'll say he is—just now, anyhow.

"IN SENDING us away," said Berkman, "America is signing her own death warrant. That is what might be called a pleasant death."

MEXICO CITY has taken up the jazz band idea. Well, maybe that is punishment enough without any other American intervention.

MOST WOMEN can tell you the cost of their presents whether the tags were left on or not. They saw about everything for sale during their intensive Christmas shopping campaign and of course the price was not overlooked.

A FEW DAYS ago somebody connected with the fuel administration advised people to buy wood to burn instead of coal. We are always patriotic in so far as within our means, so we started out to buy wood, as our furnace will burn anything from coal to peat. Then, we made the discovery that wood, in our fair city is retailing at $26 a cord. Somebody else will have to burn wood, that's all.

A POOR REMEDY
A well-known specialist has received the following letter:
"Dear Sir: Sometime ago I came by your office once and told you that my wife was not so well like she might have been and she was weak and not able to do washing and ironing like she used to and perhaps you can remember what I said to you. You gave me some medicine to cure her weakness and after she took it two weeks she got up out of bed and hit me over the head with a bed slat and necked me nonsensical. She said she was glad to be weak so she could stay in bed awhile. Yure medisn made her so strong she drags me around by the collar of the coat and makes me do the washing and ironing and stands over me with the bed slat and hands me a biff when I try to quit. I ain't had a chance to go fishing since she took yure medisn. She is so strong she don't do no work at all, but makes me do it.

"I just rite to tell you that yure medisn ain't no god and you are a faker. I just wanted you to make her so she could work, and not so she could lick me. Next time I will go somewhere else. You ought to be doctoring horses. Yours truly, AUGUS HOSTETTER."

ABE MARTIN

We trust that the next cabinet, under a new administration, will exercise more artistic judgment in the matter of hats than this one has done. Mr. Daniels' flat-topped kelly has led us to admire him for several years, from the hat down. Mr. Baker's persistency in the matter of wearing a bowler, or iron hat, has not exactly cheered the administration with us, but it has had an insidious influence in that direction, we feel very sure. As for Vice President Marshall's cute little French chapeau (hat), we will say nothing. What's the use? Mr. Lansing and Mr. Palmer save the cabinet from disaster in the matter of hats, but as for the other members of the cabinet—let's see—Mr. Clegg—who are they, anyhow?

HEALTH ADVICE

By William Brady, M. D.

CATCHING THEM YOUNG.

A lad who indulges in cigarettes or a pipe while attending high school is a pretty dangerous person for real boys and girls to be forced to associate with. In my opinion that lad ought to be permanently expelled from school by the principal for the general welfare and the maintenance of morale. As I have said before and now repeat, I wouldn't trust a cigarette smoking lad of high school age out of my sight. His moral fibre is wrong and he is not a fit companion or classmate for the normal boy or girl. I cannot understand how parents can condone this sort of thing and I do not see why school authorities should hesitate to clean house on such grounds.

There is nothing in cigarettes that makes them one whit more injurious in any way, so far as I know, than cigars or the pipe. But cigarette smoking is taken up by boys who would not be likely to indulge in cigars, and worse still, girls a trifle frail in the upper story sometimes think it is so smart to accept a cigarette and learn to smoke while attending a dance or some other affair where the smart-aleck or scatter-brain youth shines for a brief spell before he goes to the devil.

No man who understands the drug action of tobacco will deny that it produces certain characteristic and deplorable effects upon young, immature individuals. One effect is a stunting in growth when the tobacco habit is acquired at a tender age. Another well known effect of tobacco is impairment of mental acuity, so that the smart-aleck lad is generally trailing around the foot of his class or failing in more than a fair share of his subjects. A great western university instructor informed me that in many years he had noticed that no smoker had ever attained scholastic honors.

There is one direction in which it is too obvious that the tobacco smoking youth is rather precocious, and that is in the matter of sexual life. "It is for this reason that I say that parents who fail to exact from boys a solemn pledge not to use tobacco until twenty-one fall in a plain duty, and boys who cannot give and keep such a pledge are unworthy of the sacrifices parents and other fond relatives are constantly making to give them an education. There is something painful in the sight of a high school or a college lad sucking a cigarette which has been bought with money he has been loaned or given by some doting relative.

What this country needs next is a law prohibiting the sale, giving away, or possession of tobacco by any person under the age of twenty-one.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

To Children
I am forty-five, married five years, no children. Am I too old, in justice to child and myself? (A. E. C.)

ANSWER—No, sir, age need not be considered. You failed to attach a title to your signature, so I do not know whether you are a man or a woman, but I assume you are a man, because in a trifle more than fifty per cent of all cases of childlessness the husband is the sterile partner. If your regular physician is not equipped to investigate such problems he will refer you to one who can advise you and perhaps determine corrective measures.

Oil Skin
Can you suggest some remedy for oily skin and shiny nose? (N. C.)

ANSWER—Wash the skin at night and morning with a solution of 20 grains of resorcin in an ounce of alcohol or toilet water. For the shiny red nose apply instead the lotion each night. Use of each, one dram. Rose water—four ounces.

Polyp
What is polypus? Can it be outgrown? How should it be treated? (M. L.)

ANSWER—Polyp (polypus) is a soft, grape-like growth attached by a stem, usually of the mucous membrane, the result of chronic inflammation. In the nose polypoid often signify chronic sinus infection. No tissue can be outgrown. Polyp calls for surgical treatment, as a rule. Polyps are commonly found in various situations.

Menstruals and Marriage
A young woman contemplating marriage had spent months twelve years ago. She is now 23, has good health, but wonders whether children can inherit anything like that. (U. C.)

ANSWER—No. Acquired diseases from which recovery has occurred are not transmissible to children.

JAMES M. COX—THE LUCKY

Friends And Opponents Say That About Him

Now He's Candidate For President

HERE'S A LUCKY RECORD
Split Among Republicans Started His Career

By C. C. LYON

COLUMBUS—There's one thing about Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, that both his political friends and opponents agree upon absolutely:

He's the luckiest politician Ohio has developed in the present generation.

Cox wants to be the next presidential nominee of the Democratic party.

If there's anything in luck, he ought to get it.

Read his lucky record:

HERE'S HIS RECORD
For many years, up to 1908, the Third Ohio Congressional District had been heavily Republican.

But in that year the Republicans split. The Democrats handed Cox the Democratic nomination on a platter. He polled the regular Democratic strength, while his two Republican opponents divided theirs.

Cox walked into Congress again in 1910, while the Republican factions were still knifing each other.

The Democratic state convention in 1912 nominated Cox for governor without opposition.

In 1913 there was a big split between the Republicans and the bull moose, and Cox went into the governor's chair with an enormous plurality.

He tried to repeat in 1914, but failed.

LANDSLIDE BRINGS OFFICE
He was nominated again for governor in 1916 and was carried into office with the Wilson landslide in that parents who fail to exact from boys a solemn pledge not to use tobacco until twenty-one fall in a plain duty, and boys who cannot give and keep such a pledge are unworthy of the sacrifices parents and other fond relatives are constantly making to give them an education. There is something painful in the sight of a high school or a college lad sucking a cigarette which has been bought with money he has been loaned or given by some doting relative.

But Governor Also Has Dynamic Energy

HE'S A SELF-MADE MAN

James M. Cox

Ohio. While Wilson got 90,000 plurality in Ohio, Cox got 6600.

In 1918, the war was on and the "flu" epidemic. Public meetings were taboed and political discussions were confined to the newspapers. Cox was elected for the third time.

But back of all his luck, Cox possesses something that many another politician doesn't have: a dynamic energy, a level head, and an almost uncanny faculty for sensing public opinion. He's about the smartest man Ohio has seen in many a year.

Even as a boy he was smarter than his companions. Born in poverty in Butler-co, he was a country school teacher in his early teens, and then a reporter on the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Paul Sorg, the millionaire tobacco man of Middletown, got into Congress in the 90's, and picked young Cox for his private secretary.

A SMART EDITOR
Cox was such a smart private secretary that Sorg backed him in buying the Dayton News, a Democratic organ.

He instigated the first state meeting of prosecuting attorneys to fight the high cost of living and go after food hoarders and profiteers.

He tackled the coal strike proposition and was on the verge of making peace between the Ohio operators and miners when the federal government announced his nationwide settlement.

Cox is in his fiftieth year, but looks to be about 40. He enjoys wonderful physical vitality and health.

He had tramped on the corns of many different interests and they combined against him.

The Republicans, however, didn't repeat any of his reforms after the public had digested them.

Cox is always DOING THINGS. He instigated the first state meeting of prosecuting attorneys to fight the high cost of living and go after food hoarders and profiteers.

WHAT THE STARS PREDICT

This is a fortunate day. Business has a good augury today and foreign trade has the best possible prophecy.

The theater and actors will meet with unusual success during this rule.

A man little known will have a sudden leap to fame through politics, the stars indicate.

Jewels will have new vogue this year and despite the grave economic situation, much money will be spent for adornment with gems.

Persons whose birthdate this is will meet with success if they avoid speculation.

Children born today will likely meet with great happiness and success.

PERSONET
E. E. Britton

Edward E. Britton, private secretary to the secretary of the navy is a philosopher of the most optimistic type. He is bubbling over with cheerful things to say about life.

"Do you know where sunshine is?" says the secretary. "Sunshine isn't in the sky, it's in the heart. Do you know what makes a sunny day for me? It's when I see someone with happy eyes."

Britton doesn't believe in old age. He thinks that age is just a matter of environment and thought. He has young men for friends and so he talks and feels as young as they are.

He has rigged up a most elaborate peek-hole on the door to Daniel's private office. He often wants to know whether or not the secretary is busy and, as he says, to open the door and look in every time creates a draft and an interruption. So he has a hole bored thru the door at the right height for his eye, and neatly covered with a sliding flap of highly polished brass when not in use.

He is so delighted with his arrangement that he can't resist showing it off to visitors. Thus while Daniels is working away, Britton is conducting a peek-show outside his door and allowing certain privileged and awed individuals a glimpse of a secretary in action.

What hat we wear is an important question when one is to attend affairs where heads are kept covered.
The afternoon of bridge, the restaurant luncheon or dinner, the tea dance and the reception all require hats chosen with much thought and care. The chapeau which is becoming when a high collar of fur or a dark suit is worn with it may be very unattractive when the wraps are removed and it shows the colorful shoulders. The small hat, for instance, is usually very becoming with the large fur coat, but it tends to produce a tapering silhouette, but it is often disappointing when worn with a low-necked frock or blouse. The safest and most satisfactory result is obtained with the larges hat developed in black tulle or chiffon.

The tulle hats are very popular this season. The brims of these hats, either those which droop alluringly or those which have a plian-t ward flare, are always composed of at least three layers of the filmy fabric, the edges of which may be trimmed with gold or with a tiny tinsel band in bright blue or silver.
Sometimes the hats are developed in light colored tulle to match the frocks, but the all-black one is the favored type. This becoming model is a youthful style for the young de-butante to wear to her afternoon parties and tea dances. It is made of black satin and tulle combined.
Barricade encircling the crown is the only trimming and the flange of the tulle has a softening effect even upon the prettiest and most youthful face while it is a distinct advantage for the older woman.

Love and Married Life

WHAT A MAN NEVER KNOWS

I BROUGHT myself back quickly from my retrospection, but not quickly enough for John not to notice my silence.

"What are you thinking about?"
he asked impatiently. "I answered with a somewhat wry smile. "I do not seem possible to me that you at all."

"You're right, dear, you are the most straightforward, undoubtedly, but I have ever known. I have often thought that you would never be successful in business because of this honesty."

"And, as usual, my dear husband, you judge every other woman by your wife. But I must tell you that I do know women well enough to know that in the battle of the sexes the on-sides her feminine charm, which she has always used to shatter the most stubborn and desire into a man's mind in such a subtle way that he thinks the himself."

"Oh, pshaw, Katherine, what are you talking about? Why, you must know, if you know your sex at all, that women have neither the mind or inclination to do a thing of that

Another Well Known Citizen of Lima Contributes Story of His Experience

N. J. JOHNSON, SO. ELIZABETH ST., TESTIFIES

Says "I Am Glad to Recommend Nux-ite for I Know It Is a Great Medicine"

"I give my public endorsement to Nuxite because I know from my own experience with it that it is a wonderful stomach and system medicine," says Mr. N. J. Johnson, who lives at No. 138 South Elizabeth St., here in Lima.

Mr. Johnson is a bricklayer by trade, and at this time of the year most of all his work must be done out doors in cold damp sloppy weather. For many years Mr. Johnson has worked out doors in all kinds of weather without minding it much, but this year, he didn't seem able to stand the cold rainy weather as well as before. In relating his experiences with Nuxite, Mr. Johnson said
"My whole system seemed run down.
My muscles and joints were sore and stiff. I was sore across the back and couldn't rest well at night. When I got up in the morning I felt tired and weak."

"My appetite was poor, and I didn't care to eat very much, but what I did eat usually gave me indigestion. I tried about all the medicines I could get in Lima that were recommended for my kind of trouble, but nothing seemed to help me any. I finally tried Nuxite because, from what I could read and hear about it, it seemed to be a different kind of medicine and it was case exactly. I have been taking Nuxite about three weeks, and my soreness has left my back entirely.
My muscles and joints are not near so stiff and don't pain me like they did. I have a good appetite, and can eat all I want without having indigestion afterward. I sleep easily at night, and that time I was feeling has left me. Nuxite has given me great satisfaction, and I can honestly say that it is a wonderful stomach and system medicine."

This medicine to which Mr. Johnson refers, can be secured at Hanter's Public Square Store, where it is being sold under the supervision of
W. R. Cooper, the Special Nuxite
Representative.

Nuxite may also be obtained at Slewer's drug store in St. Marys, Ohio.

for Justice Botkin.

ONE ROUND BOUT NOT POPULAR

One-round knockouts in fistie battles of first importance have not been frequent, and it goes without saying that they are highly unsatisfactory from the standpoint of spectators.

In modern ring history, during a period of the last thirty years or so, there may have been a few one-round victories in bouts that meant much to the pug who answered the bell.

Back in 1895 Joe Walcott, undoubtedly one of the best welterweights that ever lived, got his chance at the title when he met Matty Mathews. Mathews was a rugged fighter. So was Walcott (the latter was also crafty and packed a wallop that carried untroubled slumber in its wake whenever the showy boy was able to land it fairly).

Mathews and Walcott met for the world's welter title and in less than three minutes Walcott had his man down and out, cold as a mackerel.

Peter Maher who, like Dempsey, had risen to fame thru a series of one-round victories, defeating such men as Steve O'Donnell, Joe Godfrey, Gus Lambert and Mike Morrissey, was matched to meet Bob Fitzsimmons in 1896 and the bout was originally slated for Hot Springs, Ark.

Later, owing to a clash with the authorities, it was transferred to Mexican soil across the border from Langtry, Texas, where the men fought together on the arid sand. Neither fighter was in the best of shape for this battle, but Maher was the worse for wear after being driven from pillar to post by the authorities of a number of towns.

Fitz was handed right into his man with the first tap of the conk, dropping him for the count after delivering several stiff bolts to the jaw.

In 1897, as a preliminary to the Fitzsimmons-Corbett battle at Carson City, Dal Hawkins and Matty Mathews clinched thru the ropes to fight for lightweight honors, and as both were rated among the foremost 133 pounders of their day, interest in this preliminary bout was widespread.

Hawkins had one punch that was a dandy—a left-hander to the jaw. With the clanging of the bell the pair exchanged a few blows, when Hawkins suddenly whipped in his own setting left across and Mathews dropped to the canvas for the full count.

Leonard is making more money out of his title right now than any other champ in the game. Dempsey undoubtedly is getting big dough for his movie activities, but that's outside his regular vocation.

Leonard has been active every month since he won the title—with the exception of the time he spent training men in the army. He grabbed the crown from Freddy Welsh's head when he knocked the English lad out in the ninth round in New York May 28, 1917. Welsh, sly and clever fox at the boxing game, was picked to keep his title, but Benny fooled him—and many others.

Benny is a Hebrew lad and a native of Little old New York. He was born April 7, 1896. He started fighting, according to the dope books, in 1913.

Leonard two months after winning the lightweight title, gave Justina a big surprise by knocking out Featherweight Champion Johnny Kilbane in the third round in a bout at Philadelphia.

The bout between Benny and Dundee will be the first twenty-round contest slated for the lightweight division since Willie Ritchie beat Ed McKee in San Francisco.

count after little more than a minute of sparring.

George La Blanche, who rushed into the spotlight when he knocked out the original Jack Dempsey with a pivot blow, crawled thru the ropes to battle Kid McCoy in 1897, but remained there only long enough to take one of the Kid's very choicest punches and the count of ten which followed it.

It was in 1906 that Pedlar Palmer, champion British featherweight, came to this country seeking glory. Palmer was heralded as one of the most wonderful boxers of his time, but in the Terrible Terry McGovern he met his Waterloo, and that in one round. Terry rushed from his corner, beat down the Britisher's guard with a veritable avalanche of blows and the famous battle of Tuckahoe was over.

In 1907 at Fort Erie, Joe Gans disposed of Frank Erne, then lightweight champion, in the first round, felling him with his left and crossing Erne to the jaw with his right as he came in to meet him. This happened after Erne had beaten Gans in New York.

George Carpentier, who recently disposed of Joe Beckett in fifty seconds, treated another British champion in the same manner. At Ghent, Belgium, in 1913, Carpentier met the European title from Bombarlier Wells in four rounds. In December of the same year he gave Wells a rematch in London and disposed of him in one round.

Jack Dempsey, the present world's champion, gained undeniable right to meet Jack Willard for the title when he checked Fred Fulton under the chin at Newark, N. J., a little over a year ago and swept the last obstacle from his pathway to Willard's front door.

The writer recalls that a ring promoter who turned to him behind him to borrow a machine, asked the knockout on this occasion. He was one sore bird.

A one-round knockout that resulted fatally occurred in 1913 when Art Polky met Luther McCarty at Calgary, Alberta. McCarty was just bloodied forth as a likely opponent for Jack Johnson when he met his untimely end, for he never regained consciousness after Polky floored him with a blow to the jaw.

until long about the middle of March. But the last week of basketball he has started to work out on the track or lumber up with baseball. Well, then he has to kill time on his books, baseball and a lot of other things until school closes.

No wonder athletes are always trained down. The game of killing time wears them down.

The proposition provides a purse of $400,000 for a 45-round bout. The fight is to be held at the border line in Mexico, 18 miles from San Diego, Calif.

Kearns announced Coffroth was making every effort to procure Carpentier's consent to the bout, thru his representative in Europe, Charles Harvey.

Coffroth is president of the Lower California Jockey Club, and has promoted several big fights, including the Corbett-Jeffries and the Jeffries-Fitzsimmons battles.

Kearns announced Dempsey would be willing to split the prize with the winner taking $200,000 and the loser $100,000. Kearns declared they would want the moving picture rights and other privileges.

Loaded gloves are used? Billy Rocap sports editor of Philadelphia Ledger, has started another stone arrolling at the Quaker City in the boxing game.

Bill says that some of the Philly mitt artists are using loaded gloves. Rocap claims the gloves have rubber cushioning of automobile tire tugs and springs it with plaster of Paris which is immediately when motioned by the Rocap says boxers who have had a kick now are knocking out.

He has mentioned no names but says he knows those performing the trick on their tricks.

1919 GOOD YEAR FOR MITT GAME

Two champions dethroned, a flood of international bouts, a wealth of contests among Uncle Sam's men and a general prosperity of the mitt game in all parts, causes the year 1919 to go down in the bound volumes as the greatest boxing year of all times.

By far the greatest feature of the year, and in fact one of the greatest of all times, was the three-round win of Jack Dempsey over Jess Willard at Toledo on July 4, in the bout for the world's heavyweight title.

Off and on has the story of how the youthful aspirant for honors attained his ambitions by leveling the Big Kanawha's frame to the Kansas seven times in three sessions.

The result of this fight removed from the game a champion, regarded as the most unpopular of all times and planted in his place a youngster—the hero of the boxing fan—a lad who in the opinion of everyone can come forth and defend his laurels whenever called upon.

The other championship to change hands during the 1919 year happened on March 17 when Jack Britton regained the welterweight crown by beating Ted Lewis.

This pair of gladiators—enemies for years after they shook hands with St. Patrick's champion. Since that time Britton has given Lewis another time Britton, this on July 28, but the Englishman has lost the popular verdict.

Other title holders in midtown clung to their titles. The not of the championship nature of the Moore fight in London drew the attention of the don attraction. The decision was sporting was Australian but even a large number of Yank should have given the margin.

Other international bouts of great interest were staged, most important of which were the Wilde-Lynch bout over Fulton with some of England's best, and the fight between a fitting climax to the roped arena sport Georges Carpentier slugged Joe Beckett for the count in one round in their bout in the city.

LEONARD MAKES NEW RESOLUTION

Ray Leonard comes out with a new year's resolution. He says that he will meet any of his challengers and that he will give them all a crack at the honors.

Leonard has met them all for the past months and in stating that he would meet them all he will have to overstep the bounds of the lightweight division.

TRIANGLES TRAINING FOR THREE DAY TRIP

Members of the "Y" Triangles will be in hot practice sessions this week preparatory to the three-day trip thru Indiana which will be started on January 15.

Reports have been received here from Indianapolis that the Euros quintet has been beating all opposition in easy manner recently. As a result Coach Pyle of the "Y" feels sure that his boys will have to exert themselves to the utmost to hold the Hoosiers to a low score.

IT'S GREAT TO EAT BIG HEARTY MEALS WITHOUT PAINS

Draco Wrought Wonderful Change In This Dayton Home. Father, Mother and Son Praise the Great Medicine

Dyspepsia, Gastritis, Nervousness, Constipation, Liver, Kidney and Stomach Trouble. Had Cast a Gloom Over Them All

"I am convinced that my wife, son and myself would have been in serious difficulties by now, had it not been for the prompt and complete relief we got from Draco," said Mr. E. S. Hanby of 143 Fairground Ave., Dayton, O., in a signed statement.

"Three weeks ago my household was burdened by stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles. My son had laid off from work for a long time from stomach trouble, gastritis and acute indigestion. My wife was weak, pale, nervous, constipated, no appetite and what she did eat went into her instead of giving her strength. She was nervous, couldn't eat and seemed to be worried all the time. As for me I was bilious, had dizzy spells and headaches. The Draco bottle sits on the sideboard and all of us take out of it and that is why such a change has come over our home. Draco has made life worth living. My son is back at work; my wife is in good cheer the whole day long and I feel full of energy all the time. All of us sit up to the table, eat heartily and have no fear of the results. Every one of us sing the praises of Draco, and I'd almost rather be without food in the house than to be without Draco. Tell every one suffering from stomach disorders, gastritis, constipation, weak kidneys, lazy liver to get Draco—It will do the work."

Draco acts on the vital organs in a prompt and pleasing manner; relief is quick and permanent.

Draco is sold by all progressive druggists throughout the country and is highly recommended in Lima by Baldwin's Central Drug Store, corner Main and High Streets.

GOTHAM HAS HUGE MOTOR SHOW

Wide Range of Cars Exhibited in Auto Show.

MACHINES PRICED TO $11,000

Bodies Show Few Deviations from Stream Line.

NEW YORK.—From near flivvers to palaces, from $750 cars to De Luxe pieces of motor grandeur, the war tax which costs nearly that much, from the ordinary "road house" to the fulfillment of the dream of a modern Cinderella, every conceivable kind of a motor car is on display at the annual New York Automobile Show.

Eighty-four standard make of cars ranging in price from $750 to $11,000 including foreign and domestic manufacture, are exhibited. No radical departures from the conservative lines of the "war season" are seen in the bodies or under the hoods.

Steam lines will prevail with a few deviations in the nature of "battleship" and "tank" bodies. The mechanical authorities incline to a six cylinder motor with no new additions to the eight and 12 cylinder models.

While mechanical innovations have shown no radical departures, luxurious fittings for the interior have been provided. High-priced limousines contain a vanity case built in the side with brush and comb, rouge box, mirror, powder packets and all the beauty aids for the fair rider. In the opposite side are a cigarette lighter, a cigar and cigarette holder and a small tube thru which ashes can be conveyed to the exterior.

Aluminum wheels and hoods are popular in the sport models of speed cars. Two of the most popular American roadsters have a guaranteed speed of 100 miles an hour "without effort." It may be significant that they are built very low.

The show continues for one week

The highest medical authorities in the United States and Great Britain strongly endorse the medical ingredients used in the preparation of Nuxite Ointment, for an aid in the treatment of nasal catarrh, soreness in the chest, pneumonia, cold in the head, tonsillitis, sore throat, Asthma and spasmodic croup. When used according to directions, there is no preparation which is more powerful as an auxiliary treatment as an aid in the prevention of the above troubles.

A cough or cold inflamed throat is a direct warning and unless promptly attended to, serious complications are sure to follow. Nuxite Cough Syrup is an idly early treatment for these conditions, and no home should be without this splendid treatment, which is prepared only from carefully selected medicinal ingredients most highly endorsed and recommended by the highest medical authorities of both America and Europe.

The Nuxite preparations are sold in Lima at Hunter's Public Square Store.

THE THEATRE, VAUDEVILLE AND SCREEN

FORECAST AND COMMENT BY ESTHER WAGNER

VAUDEVILLE

ORPHEUM—The strangest, cutest, most charming little folk on earth come to the Orpheum theatre at the matinee this afternoon and the two shows tonight as an all-week attraction extraordinary. They are a musical company with seventeen Lilliputians, just like you read about in "Gulliver's Travels." They are called "The Midget Follies," and they are heralded as the greatest novelty ever booked for presentation in Lima. The Midget Follies will offer two full-sized presentations today, Tuesday and Wednesday. There will be a complete change of program at the matinee Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The second extravaganza will be the offering for the evening performance. There will be a special matinee for children at the Orpheum Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Halina Bruzowna.

and with a number of children stage a circus of their own, using a goat to represent an elephant and other burlesque animals for "circus animals." The play is entertaining and causes much laughter.

Charlie Chaplin in "A Day's Pleasure" is coming to the Regent Wednesday. With Pauline Frederick's new Goldwyn picture, "The Loves of Letty," Regentites will find a diversity of entertainment which doubtless will prove most appealing to the mass of photoplay fans in the city.

Bessie Barriscale is announced as an early Regent attraction in her new picture, "The Beckoning Roads."

The name Halina Bruzowna means very little now to the American theatre-going public, but it means what Sarah Bernhardt means in France.

Before the war, Mme. Bruzowna was the idol of the Polish stage. At the state theatre in Warsaw she played leading roles under the direction of Richard Ordynski, now stage manager of the Metropolitan.

When the war broke out, Madame Bruzowna left the footlights and went into the trenches. Twice she served in the first line. It was only after her husband was killed in battle that she left the army. Then she served in the Red Cross. Nicholas, former czar of Russia, decorated her for distinguished service.

The suffering, misery and the actual want that fell to her lot at this time took her strength and depleted her resources, but did not crush her ambition. As soon as the war was over she decided to go on with her art—not in her native land, but in America. She had few friends here, and only an imperfect knowledge of the English language, but she came determined to win recognition.

Shortly after her arrival in this country, Lewis J. Selznick heard of her and gave her an opportunity to work in moving pictures while she is perfecting her English. She is now at work in his Ft. Lee studio. Her first appearance will be in "The Faded Butterfly," a Herbert Kaufman weekly.

Here's wishing Halina all good luck and success. She certainly does not look old enough to have had all these experiences which her ambitious press agent recounts in such a truthful manner.

GLORIA'S MARRIED

Gloria Swanson, who came into prominence in the movies of Cecil B. DeMille, has been married. Her husband is Herbert Somborn of Los Angeles. He is in the business end of the movie industry.

ANN'S HOBBIES

Palms are the hobby of Ann Forest. Next to palms, she likes swimming best. And after that, says Ann, whose tastes are varied indeed, "making chocolate fudge."

JOSEPHINE PLAYS LEAD

Jack Donaghy has for his leading woman Josephine Sedgwick, well remembered for her work in many western productions. Josie was married but a few weeks ago to Billie Gettner.

Christmas week brought many interesting novelties to the city. At the Metropolitan Opera House the world premiere of "The Bluebird" was staged. The noted Belgian author, Maurice Maeterlinck, who wrote the story which is familiar to all American playgoers, added distinction to the opera premiere by his presence, as did the composer.

It was a brilliant audience which gathered to welcome this new opera to the repertoire of the Metropolitan, and as might have been expected, it was as artistic as it was a social success. At the Riverside Theatre opera also was presented by the advent of Madame Marguerite Sylva, the colorful opera singer and the greatest of living "Carmens." This remarkable singer has been absent from opera and New York for some time, but in her present stellar vehicle she reminds us of some of her great operatic achievements while still catering to the more popular taste by a repertoire of songs peculiarly her own.

The New Year will see a group of new plays of considerable distinction launched by the New York managers. The theatres are already changing their tenants. "The Crimson Alibi" which has been one of the effective melodramas of the season has given way to Jane Cowie's new play, "Smilin' Thru," and the Knickerbocker Theatre, which has housed Eddie Leonard and a musical play called "Roly Poly Eyes" has been compelled to vacate in favor of a new musical play called "The Broken Melody." This remarkable singer has been absent from opera and New York for some time, but in her present stellar vehicle she reminds us of some of her great operatic achievements while still catering to the more popular taste by a repertoire of songs peculiarly her own.

This Is Better Than Laxatives

One NR Tablet Each Night For A Week Will Correct Your Constipation and Make Constant Dosing Unnecessary. Try It.

Poor digestion and assimilation mean a weak, nervous and low vitality. Poor elimination means charged bowels, fermentation, putrid gases and the formation of poisonous gases which are absorbed by the blood and carried through the body. The result is weakness, headaches, dizziness, coated tongue, inactive liver, bilious attacks, loss of energy, nervousness, poor appetite, impoverished blood, sallow complexion, pimples, skin disease, and often times serious illness.

Ordinary laxatives, purges and cathartics—sals, oils, calomel and the like—may relieve for a few hours, but real, lasting benefit can only come through use of medicine that tones up and strengthens the digestive as well as the eliminative organs. Get a 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one tablet each night for a week. Relief will follow the very first dose, but a few days will elapse before you feel and realize the fullest benefit. When you get straightened out and feel just right again you need not take medicine every day—on occasion NR Tablet will then keep your system in good condition and you will always feel your best. Remember, keeping well is easier and cheaper than getting well. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) are guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

SUGAR SUPPLY FOR U. S. ASSURED

WASHINGTON.—Most of the Cuban sugar crop will come to the United States because other nations have not the credit to buy it and this will be sufficient for American needs, it was learned Saturday at the department of agriculture.

Sugar consumption in the United States this year will be more than 4,000,000 tons, it was stated, of which 2,000,000 tons will come from domestic crops and insular possessions. This leaves 2,000,000 or more tons to come from Cuba. The Cuban crop is about 4,200,000 tons, of which the British have contracted for 1,100,000.

ACCUSE WOMAN OF KIDNAPING

Tells Police She Was Lonely and Took Child

CLEVELAND.—Mrs. Irene Salome 22, and pretty, was under arrest here Monday on a charge of kidnaping Pauline Polovich, four years old. "I was lonely and I loved the child, so I took it, police said she told them."

Mrs. Salome said she was separated from her husband and came from a village near Knoxville, Tenn. Tiring of working as a telephone operator here, she said she secured a job as housekeeper in the child's home. "I didn't think she was properly clothed and cared for, and I loved her too much to see her suffer, so I just took her," she was quoted by the police.

The pair disappeared December 20 and were discovered Sunday in Akron. Leo Polovich, father of the child, and a widow, insisted on prosecution.

DON'T SUFFER WITH NEURALGIA

Use Soothing Musterole

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, just rub a little Musterole on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief. Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister. Many doctors and nurses frankly recommend Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite—cold of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). It is always dependable. 30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

NEW ORLEANS.—Major Harold Hetrick, of Kansas City, U. S. Army, engineer in charge of the Mississippi river district here, died Saturday from wounds received Thursday night when it is said an unidentified assailant entered his home and shot him thru the head.

Before Hetrick died, he said he had never seen his assailant and did not know why he was shot. The police declared they have a full description of the alleged murderer, who was stopped by several people who he ran out of the Hetrick home, slain by Bolshevik forces.

THE LIMA DAILY NEWS

Leads as Always in the Amount of Advertising Used by Lima Merchants. All the wise merchants are found in its columns. They buy for results only and this is the way they bought for the month of December:

COMPARISON OF ADVERTISING

	Local	Foreign	Class.	Total
NEWS	45,122	8,807	4,767	58,696
TIMES	38,996	3,100	2,057	44,153
GAZETTE	35,731	2,802	3,812	42,345
News lead over Times	6,126	5,707	2,710	14,543
News lead over Gazette	9,391	6,005	955	16,351

It is not the price you pay but what you get when you have paid, that determines the value of Advertising. If you were mailing circulars the number of stamps you purchased would determine how MANY homes you reached. Why not use the same common sense in buying Newspaper Advertising?

THE DAILY NEWS has made the smallest advance in advertising rates of any paper of its class in Ohio. Its rate today is lower than in such cities as Marion, Portsmouth, Sandusky, Mansfield and Zanesville. Its circulation is larger. PER THOUSAND the advertising bought in The Daily and Sunday News is the LOWEST in Lima and the lowest in the state.

MANY MERCHANTS will not stop to think of WHO SEES their ad; they get a copy and believe everybody else has gotten a copy. In Lima THE DAILY NEWS goes into NINETY PERCENT of all homes; it enters these homes just before supper when the whole family has time to read and study the ads.

EVENING ADVERTISING is almost exclusively used in the larger cities, because the merchants of the larger cities have studied the problem of advertising and know how and where to get results.

IN BUYING SPACE THIS YEAR USE THE SAME JUDGMENT AS IN BUYING MERCHANDISE

Don't be embarrassed by disfiguring blemishes.

There is no need of enduring such discomfort when Resinol Ointment usually relieves itching promptly and makes the skin clear and healthy again. When aided by Resinol Soap it is even more effective. RESINOL SHAVING STICK tends to prevent irritation. All dealers sell the Resinol products.

Early in the second hour the market rallied, and a number of stocks, some of which had been in the open decline, raised a point or more.

Heaviness was shown in the general list in the first half hour. Pan-American Petroleum declined 3 to 10 1/2; Studebaker dropped to 113 1/2; American Woolen sold at 159 down more than 10 points from last week's high. International Paper reacted 2 points to 85 1/2, and American Petroleum dropped 3 1/2 to 21 1/2.

Mullins Bros gained 3 points to 51. Corn Products selling at 89, made up its initial decline of 1 per cent quarterly and 1/2 per cent extra.

Mexican Petroleum sold to 21 1/2, Republic Steel 119 1/2, U. S. Steel, 107 1/2, and American Woolen 160 1/2. Before becoming reactionary with the general list, Stutz Motors sold up to a new high at 131 1/2.

Miss Flynn Says She's Not a Red

A sensation was created at the local department of justice when an investigator accosted a young and wearing a red tie and hood and asked her point blank if she was a member of the communist party. The young lady gave the investigator a withering look and walked into the office of William J. Flynn—"the chief". The investigator was then informed that the young lady was Flynn's daughter and that she was a stenographer in his office.

WILLS TELLS OF BANKS' DUTY

Must Educate Against Extravagance, Says Chairman.

WARNS OF RATE INCREASE

Higher Credit Charges May Be Federal Method.
BY D. C. WILLS

Chairman of Board Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland.

The signing of the armistice apparently was the signal for an outburst of the buying fever which has, from all indications, not yet reached its height. Essentials, then non-essentials, were bought in quantities which rapidly depleted the moderate stocks held by merchants and forced the people, surprised with money and completely under the influence of a hypnotic "spending" spell, to turn their attention to the class of goods properly called luxuries.

As indicative of the extent to which our extravagance has led us, we repeat the statement of a prominent firm in this district that the amount paid by their customers in luxury taxes would more than equal the firm's income and excess profits tax.

There was a time within the recollection of many of us when price was a controlling factor in purchasing; but price no longer enters into our calculation. It has been demonstrated that goods will sell more quickly at an arbitrary 25 per cent increase than at the original price.

PRICE QUESTION RAISED

A retail shoe dealer recently said he was compelled to mark up the price of his goods, as he found that customers were leaving his store and purchasing similar goods from his competitors, at higher prices. Buyers for merchandise houses are no longer concerned with the price. The only question raised is that of delivery—knowing that the public will demand the goods regardless of cost.

All these instances indicate the extent to which the disease of "spenditis" is spreading. The remedy is plain. Production must be increased, and consumption limited to those things which we really need. We must learn to distinguish between luxuries and necessities. It is a common fallacy that, because incomes have doubled our standard of living has changed so that those things which we once regarded as luxuries are now classed as essentials.

We must remember that the purchasing power of the dollar has declined in about the same ratio that incomes have increased.

DUTY OF THE BANKERS

A tremendous responsibility rests today upon the bankers of this country. As leaders in their communities they must use their influence to point out the unsound viewpoint which permits or encourages extravagance. Both by education and example they should instruct the people to a clearer understanding of the situation as it really is. It is up to the people to correct it—but our bankers must point out the way.

An effective means which the Federal Reserve Bank has of bringing this lesson home is thru discouraging unnecessary discounting, by a closer inquiry into the purposes for which funds are to be used and by increased discount rates.

Aside from these two means, together with the warnings which they will continue to send out, the Federal Reserve Bank must solicit the aid of their member banks in curbing an extravagant public.

The commercial banks must do their part to impress upon the public that the reason of the Federal Reserve system are for legitimate industrial and agricultural uses and are not to be exploited for speculative purposes.

MAN EVIDENTLY FOUND SOMETHING WITH KICK

Whatever Clarence Lafferty soaked into his constitution had a kick in it, police said Monday morning regarding the arrest of Lafferty Sunday evening.

The arrested still graces a cell at the city prison, unable to stand hearing and still unmindful of his whereabouts.

As soon as Lafferty comes out of the spell, police said, he will be arraigned and some effort made to determine "how he got that way."

BANKS SEE PERIL IN OIL BOOM

Many New Companies Are of Doubtful Possibilities

NEW YORK—Much of the discussion regarding protective legislation for investors thruout the country has been engendered by the oil boom, which has brought into being thousands of new companies, some of which are being formed by the oil boom, even doubtful speculative possibilities, to say nothing of the actual frauds.

Bankers have become alert to the situation, which threatens, if unchecked, the absorption of an amount of capital which in the long run will show a heavy percentage of actual loss.

Figures compiled by the Journal of Commerce show that during the last year 1,629 oil companies were formed, with a total capitalization of $3,786,006,000. In 1918 the total of companies was 280 and the capitalization $420,480,000. There were 512 oil enterprises incorporated in 1917 and 240 the year preceding.

The grand total since 1914 shows the formation of 3,474 new companies and the capital involved reaches the staggering figure of $5,595,222,000. A comparison with 1919 indicates that more than half of the total capitalization is to be found in the figures of the year just ended.

PREPARE BUDGET

Committee Soon Will Make Appropriations for Year

The finance committee of the city council will soon begin its work of making up the appropriation for each department of the city.

The various departments began sending to the office of D. L. Rupert, city auditor, Monday, reports of the amount of money necessary for the carrying on of their work the ensuing six months.

Auditor Rupert has already begun the work of tabulating the amount of money which may be spent in the departments the coming six months.

When these reports from the auditor and from the various departments are all ready, the finance committee will begin its work on the budget. The committee is composed of T. M. Berry, chairman, H. L. Hopper and Harry Altschul.

ARMED GUARD WATCHES OVER CLEVELAND COURT

CLEVELAND — Heavily armed guards surrounded "Big Jim" Morton, when he was placed on trial here Monday on a charge of robbing a local bank of $65,000 last June. It was feared an attempt would be made to rescue him. Guards stood at the doors of the court room and searched all persons who entered.

Several attempts were made to rescue him, once in a jail delivery and another time thru the attempted bribery of a deputy sheriff.

START OF YEARS COMPARED

Tendency Toward Higher Prices Is Now Indicated

INDUSTRIAL NEEDS GREAT

Outcome of Abnormal Conditions Much in Doubt

NEW YORK — The New Year opens with financial and business conditions presenting numerous points of contrast with one year ago. Then the country's mill owners were wondering whether there would be enough orders to keep them busy; now, in many lines, contracts are pressing so heavily on manufacturers that they cannot handle them fast enough.

A year ago the government's necessities overshadowed all others in the credit market; now the demand from the industries for working capital and the urgings of speculators for accommodation are the most impressive element bearing upon credit.

A year ago many thoughtful people were trying to estimate the weeks which would pass before prices for commodities began to fall; at present prices generally are higher than they were when 1919 opened, and the initial signs of the expected decline have not been seen.

In fact, the tendency is forward, taking steel, copper, clothing, and building materials as examples. In January of last year the stock market doubtfully moved into lower ground than the month before. So far in the current month quotations have been lifted with a sort of boisterous enthusiasm, whose import may not be fully determined.

Considering the matter of contrasts further, the question may well be raised whether 1920, starting off with shortages of goods and cheer among speculators, will not be likely to end with depression and a declining trend of prices. The usual surveys and forecasts of the season have been read and digested. To those who have sought the opinion of bankers and manufacturers, merchants and transportation managers, it has doubtless been apparent that a majority have emphasized the problems lying ahead. Not a few of the articles printed in the last week predicted lower quotations for commodities within the year and suggested that the process would entail a shrinkage of profits.

Many presented the same thought, qualified with the prediction that successful efforts at financing the export trade would act to postpone the time of price recessions. Some careful students of the economic field held that measures aimed at the deflation of credit would limit the activities of all sorts of business. There were those who, on the other hand, felt that domestic demand were so great that a year of intense activity, making due allowance for inadequate and frequently insufficient labor, would not fill the depleted stocks and appease the public's appetite for goods. Who has it right?

Certainly there would be no complaint from hard pressed consumers if prices reacted. It is possible to conceive of a situation arising because of sharp declines in the export movement, in which prices would fall heavily as goods accumulated in manufacturers' hands. The foreign demand is so substantial, however, that a gradual rather than sudden contraction of exports is generally looked for, if any material decline occurs.

The deduction frequently drawn from a possible overproduction of a sort to cause quotations to fall is that dividends would suffer and unemployment develop. There is another way of looking at it, however. It would doubtless be a period of less active business, but it might be regarded as a reawakening of consumption at home, which would set things humming again.

GRAND JURY NOW IN SESSION

Work Will Be Completed Tuesday, Officials Say

The Allen County grand jury for the January term will complete its work Tuesday, according to Prosecuting Attorney John L. Cable. The body got down to work Monday at 9:25 o'clock.

All but two of the persons summoned as grand jurors appeared. They were Clarence Boggs, Monroe township and Elias Lora, Wood, Cairo. Their places were filled with Solomon Ruff and Milo Haddell.

Thirty-four witnesses were called to testify Monday. The cases, out of which will probably grow secret indictments, will be heard Tuesday, Cable said. There are but a few of these, he declares.

A report may be expected Tuesday afternoon, the prosecutor stated.

MONEY ASKED

Money in the sum of $860.88 is asked of F. O. Henizer by the Studebaker Sales Company, in a suit filed in common pleas court Monday.

GRAIN FUTURES GO HIGHER

CHICAGO — Grain futures were higher on the Chicago board of trade Monday. The market went up on reports of unsettled weather and light receipts. The oats market was influenced by a strong export demand. Provisions also were higher.

January corn was up 1/2 at the opening 1.35 1/2 and later gained an additional 1/2. May corn opened at 1.33 1/2, up 1/2, and subsequently gained 1 1/2. July corn up 1/2 at the opening, 1.31 1/2, later advanced 1/2.

May oats up 1/2 at 83 1/2 at the opening, in later trading gained an additional 1/2. July oats unchanged at 78 1/2, but rose 1/2 before the close.

"Why, Norah," said her mistress, "how nice you look in your new dress and hat. I hope you will meet all your friends this afternoon, so that they may see you in your fine clothes."

"Me friends, mum?" returned Norah. "What'll I be wantin' to see them for? Sure, I don't care to make me friend jealous, it's me enemies I want to meet when I'm dressed up."

"This steak is burned!" exclaimed Mr. Dubwite. "I must impress on the cook that beef costs too much to be incinerated."

"The cook we have at present is not well educated," said Mrs. Dubwite, "and I would advise you to use the word 'burned,' instead of 'incinerated.' If you are going to run the risk of reproving her, you should try to make yourself understood."

A Georgia magistrate was perplexed by the conflicting claims of two negro women for a baby, each contending that she was the mother of it. The judge remembered Solomon and, drawing a knife from his boot, declared that he would give to each.

The women were shocked, but had no doubt of the authority and purpose of the judge to make the proposed compromise. "Don't do that, boss," they both screamed in unison. "You can keep it yourself!"

"I bet I know what makes sister wear her hair bunched down over her ears," said the small boy.

"Do you?" replied the affable young man.

"Yes, but I ain't going to tell. Only if my ears were as big as sister's I'd do something like that myself."

GOV. ALLEN NOT TO BE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE

NEW YORK.—Simultaneously with the announcement of Governor Henry Allen, of Kansas, that he was not going to be a candidate for president came the announcement here from officials of the Leonard Wood League that he had been named as vice president of the league.

From the headquarters of the league at the Hotel Imperial circulars have been sent out to every state in the Union except the extreme southern group and those communities in which favorite sons have already announced their candidacy.

Cards asking the support of General Wood for president have been returned signed by more than 10,000 voters and they are pouring in at the rate of 1,000 daily.

Sneeze Today? Look Out for Flu!

A FEW sneezes—a cold in the head—then trouble. Winter time is cold time—and colds are the beginning of most winter sickness. 1920 JUST WHAT WE MAKE IT

Ford Says Industry Depends on Business Men.

TARIFF CHANGE IS NEEDED

Would Have Doors Opened to Raw Material.

By Henry Ford.

DEARBORN, Mich.—The Industrial New Year will be just what American business makes it.

If our object is to make money out of work and the products of work, we can create a sound and profitable business New Year. But if we try to make money out of mere speculative tricks, we need expect no constructive advance.

TARIFF CHANGE NEEDED. A temporary tariff arrangement that would permit raw materials from foreign countries to come into the United States without duty, that they might be shipped back to needy countries in useful form, would be a great help to American business just now. Industry in the United States is now being held back by a scarcity of raw material.

These may go had in plenty from certain European countries, which are now at a standstill because they can neither sell their raw material nor work it up for commerce.

You ask concerning the effect of the bonus and stock sharing plan on the workmen involved. My conviction is that most of the trouble which has afflicted some lines of industry in this country is due to the separation which has come between the management and the men.

Business cannot succeed in a human way unless both groups are united in the same effort. SHOULD SHARE PROFITS. Those who create should share. That has been our object from the beginning, and we are working it out step by step.

We have never lost anything in any forward step we have taken in these matters. It costs a tidy sum of money to hire a man or discharge him. We save that cost because our men want to stay with us they deliver an honest day's work because they know they will share in the results.

It is a great pleasure and gratification to have been able this year to complete the plan whereby our men may buy stock and draw dividends. It is a scandal that workmen's savings should be at the mercy of unsafe investment schemes. JUST ANOTHER STEP.

The new plan does not in any way interfere with the ones already in force. The profit-sharing plan of 1914, the regular bonus plan, and the upward-sliding wage scale still remain operative.

We have simply added another section to a plan which we hope some day to complete.

7-YEAR-OLD BOY PREACHER. HUTCHINSON, Kan.—The Y. M. C. A. Bible class here recently heard a sermon the text of which was "Is Predestination Essential" delivered by Elmer Jenks, seven-year-old son of E. E. Jenks, of Quenemo. Elmer, according to his father, began preaching when three years old and when old enough to attend school had read the Bible through.

4—The Bolshevik report the capture of Marinsk east of Tomsk.

HOLD MRS. BLAKE TO BE INSANE

Alleged Slayer of Son Held Mentally Unbalanced.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Mrs. Esther Blake, charged with murder of her five-year-old son, "Buddy," will be sent to the state asylum for insane, it was indicated here.

The commission of local alienists appointed by County Judge Ingersoll, recommended that Mrs. Blake should be sent to the state institution. Mrs. Blake's mental ailment, the commission said, is of a permanent nature.

Ingersoll reserved decision but it was expected he will act favorably on the commission's recommendation.

The case aroused wide interest. Mrs. Blake, wife of a well-to-do banker with offices in Philadelphia, appeared at the floor of a residence in Ventnor City one night last month and said her son had been kidnapped by two negroes who attacked her while she was walking on the board walk.

Next day the boy's body was washed ashore and Chief Sprague of the Ventnor police arrested Mrs. Blake charging her with the boy's murder. He advanced the theory Mrs. Blake drowned the boy in an effort to regain the love of her husband from whom she was separated.

CLEVER GANG OF PARIS THIEVES STOLE GOODS TWICE

PARIS.—The French police have just succeeded in rounding up eleven members of a gang of burglars known by the curious name of the "Bande des Magistrats," whose sphere of operations was in Paris and the outskirts, and whose victims were principally jewelers and silversmiths.

Their method was original. After securing a haul they disposed of the stolen articles at a low price to second-hand dealers known to be without scruples about the origin of the goods they bought. A few days later two members of the gang representing themselves as police officials, and armed with cleverly faked warrants, would call on the dealer, explaining that the police had arrested thieves, who had confessed to having sold him certain stolen articles, a full description of which they gave.

They then proceeded to search the shop in order to identify the missing articles, confiscating all the jewelry and silver found, and attaching numerous official seals to the shop before leaving with their booty. With the law was strengthened by the fact that one of their members really was a police inspector, who had recently joined the force, probably with the idea of facilitating the work of the gang.

WOMAN SERIOUSLY HURT IN PLAYING PARLOR GAME

CANTON, Ohio.—Mrs. R. Verne Mitchell, wife of the president of the United Securities Company and prominent society woman, is at her home in a serious condition with several ribs broken and it is feared other injuries as a result of playing a parlor game at the home of a friend Sunday night.

Members of the party were to draw three deep breaths and then lift Mrs. Mitchell from the floor with the finger tips. The program was followed, but as she was raised in the air, some one's finger tips slipped and Mrs. Mitchell fell, badly injured.

WALES GLAD TO BE WHERE IT'S WET AGAIN

LONDON.—The Prince of Wales, presiding at the annual dinner of the Licensed Victuallers' Asylum, raised a laugh by saying that he was happy to find himself back in London where a man didn't even have to pretend to be dry.

goods on any premises to be tabulated. In such cases the enumerator should at once be ordered to show his card.

TWO HUNTERS CLAIM THEY SHOT SAME DEER

ADAMS, Mass.—With the deer's head hanging in a drug store and the body suspended from a hook in the refrigerator at a market, the local court is to be called upon to determine ownership of the animal brought down in Hawley after shots had been fired by Herbert Turner and Emory Gagnon.

Turner claims that he fired a shot that wounded the deer, but Gagnon insists that it was a bullet from his gun that killed the animal, which was on its feet when he fired.
